FIGHTING

On Huge Scale in Progress Along the Entire Eastern Front

RUMANIANS HARD PRESSED

Central Powers Put All Available Men In Field to Stop Drive of Russians Toward Lemberg and the Advance of the Slavs and Rumanians Through the Transylvania Territory

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Sept. 20.—Fighting on a huge scale is in progress along the eastern front whence the center of interest has been shifted following the let up in the heavy allied attacks along the Somme in the west. Evidence is accumulating that the central powers are now devoting their main attention to the campaigns in the east, concentrating large forces against Rumania, notably under Field Marshal von Mackensen in Dobruja, and putting all possible available men in the field to stop the Russian march on Lemberg by way of Halicz and the menacing drives of the Russians and Rumanians in the Carpathians and Transylvania.

Both Berlin and Sofia report the development of a great battle on the line the Russians and Rumanians have taken up in Dobruja to defend the railroad route into interior Rumania from Constantza, on the Black Sea. The engagement, they declare, is turning in favor of the force of the central powers, under von Mackensen. Latest reports from the fighting in Galicia and Volhynia showed the Teutonic forces on the offensive and claiming decided advantages over the Russian armies under General Brusiloff. As has frequently been the case when decisive developments were lacking, Petrograd today is silent regarding the operations along the Russian front, reporting merely that the three have been no important happenings.

Turkish troops, which appear to have played an important part in stiffening the lines of the Teutonic allies in the recent fighting in Galicia, Constantinople announces today. A 48-hour battle with superior Russian forces resulted in the Turks completely maintaining their position.

In Macedonia the trend of the campaign appears to favor the entente armies. The Serbians are reported in a continued advance along the western end of the line, driving the remaining Bulgarians out of Florina and capturing the highest peak in the Kamakkean range, north of Lake Ostrovo. Sofia, however, denies the success claimed for the Serbians in the Kamakkean region.

Greece again appears as a probable new factor in the military field in the Balkans. She is reported to have sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding the return of the Greek troops taken at Kavala by the Bulgarians and sent to Germany for internment.

Comparative quiet prevails in the Somme region, Paris sends news of a German attack at Hill 76, north of the river, which the French repelled, rejecting such Germans as succeeded in gaining a foothold in advanced positions.

On the British section of the Somme front, the Germans have been counter-attacking but have failed to regain any of their lost ground, London asserts. Further north along the line British troops raided and cleared a German trench 200 yards in length south of Arras.

Reports from the Rumanian side of the struggle in Dobruja today were more favorable to the entente. Bucharest declares that the Rumanians have a success over the Germans and Bulgarians near Enicza, 19 miles south of the railway from Constantza to Tzernavoda, in the battle on which control of the railway line probably hinges.

Woman Murdered In Boarding House; Choked to Death

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Zeta Arnold Dunlap, 30, was found beaten to death in a boarding house on East Third street here today by the proprietor of the place. Police are seeking a man named Joe, in whose room the body was found as the slayer. The woman had been dead two days. Police believe that she was attacked outside the house and dragged inside, partially conscious, through a window, where the attack was continued until she was finally choked to death.

APPEAL

Made Direct to President Shouts to Settle Traction Strike

NO HOPE OF ADJUSTMENT

Traction Officials Declare Recognition of Union Would Result In Strike of Loyal Employees—Mayor Mitchell to Meet Officials This Afternoon—General Strike Still Threatened

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Sept. 20.—All other efforts to prevent the threatened general strike of 700,000 trade unionists in sympathy with the striking car men having thus far failed, Mayor Mitchell decided today to make a personal appeal to Theo. P. Shontz, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company and the New York Street railway to recede from its reiterated intention of refusing to deal with the strikers. Mr. Shontz' position—necessary, the traction head says, because of a threat to strike by loyal employees in the event of recognition of the unions—balked the attempt of the public service commission and a citizens committee to bring about an amicable adjustment.

Although there appeared little hope of a change in the traction company's policy, the mayor arranged for a conference with Mr. Shontz later today.

ROBBERS FLEE IN MOTORBOAT; POSSE PURSUES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Miami, Fla., Sept. 20.—Chase for the four bandits who last Friday got $6,000 from the Homestead bank and Saturday killed three members of a posse pursuing them, today developed into a motorboat race. Sheriff Dan Hardie telegraphed that the fugitives again had eluded his men early today and had left Key Largo in a stolen motorboat and that he was taking up the pursuit in two boats.

VILLA

CUTS COMMUNICATION BETWEEN CHIHUAHUA AND JUAREZ IS THE BELIEF.

Conditions in City More Serious Than Carranza's Officers Will Admit—Gen. Bell Makes Report.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 20.—Belief that Francisco Villa will soon cut the Carranza line of communications between Chihuahua City and Juarez if he has not already done so, was suggested by Major General Funston today after he had read a report on Villa's Chihuahua engagement received from Brigadier General Bell at El Paso.

Stories gathered by Gen. Bell and persons reaching El Paso from the interior indicate that Gen. Trevino's forces were driven out of Chihuahua City in Villa's Saturday attack and that they took station on a large hill outside the city from necessity and not from choice, as previous reports said. From the hill they succeeded by the use of artillery in dislodging the Villistas.

General Funston refused to give out all details of the Bell reports for publication but he said it confirmed previous accounts of the battle and indicated even more serious conditions than were admitted by the Carranzistas.

WIFE'S AFFECTIONS VALUED AT $50 BY COMMON PLEAS JURY

In the case of William Hammond vs. Sylvester Cox, a suit for alienation of affections of plaintiff's wife, the jurors in common pleas court returned a verdict for plaintiff for $50. The court and a jury were engaged on Wednesday in the case of Thomas P. Bowen vs. Chas. C. Wells, a suit to recover damages growing out of plaintiff's cattle getting through a partition fence which separates the farms of the parties into a field of green rice and eating some of the rice and dying. Plaintiff alleges that it was the duty of defendant to keep the portion of the fence in repair through which the cattle passed, and that his failure to do so was negligence for which plaintiff claims defendant is responsible to him in damages.

MILK WAR NEAR PATASKALA; EIGHTY MILK CANS MUTILATED

Once again war has been declared, but this time it is a milk war and the conflict is being waged in Pataskala and Outville. The milk producers in that vicinity are divided on the question of demanding more money for their products from the Columbus dealers, which have long furnished a market for the milk. Until the past few days, the milk producers have banded together, and under contract have been getting a certain price for their products, but some of them thought they were entitled to an increase in the price paid. These constituted about twenty per cent of those shipping milk to Columbus, while the others decided to stand by their contracts, and continued to ship milk at the present rates.

As has been customary the milk is placed along the railroad tracks in the morning and the empty cans are returned at night and picked up in the mornings. Beginning with Saturday night the empty cans have been tampered with, and great holes have been punched in them with some sort of a sharp instrument, and the cans have been otherwise mutilated. Among those to suffer loss were Charles Angevine, N. T. Atkinson, and J. E. Morrow of Pataskala and W. T. Green of York street, a milk station.

These demanding more money are large producers of milk said not to be so rich in quality. The Columbus dealers have refused the increase and Moore & Rose and the Tellings Milk company of Columbus, large dealers have notified the strikers that they will have no further use for shipments from them.

Railroad officials were notified of the destruction of the cans and they will make the loss good. They also have placed detectives on the case and the cans will be watched. Twenty cans were destroyed at Pataskala, forty at York street, and twenty at Outville.

TELLS COURT HER HUSBAND HOUSED PIGS IN THE HOME

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Sept. 20.—After testifying that her husband kept pigs and chickens in their home and that he would not let her sweep the house because she would wear out the broom, Mrs. Mary Rolison, of Lickens county was granted a divorce today from her husband, Alva A. Rolison, said to be a wealthy farmer.

Mrs. Rolison testified that after her marriage on Nov. 29, last, she went to her husband's home and found the five room house arranged in this manner. One room housing pigs; one housing chickens; one for the automobile and one a kitchen and another a bedroom.

The wife testified that her husband would not permit her to sweep "because it cost money." She told the judge her husband would not take her to church on Sundays in the automobile, because the expense for the automobile would cost too much money.

DR. BROUGH

SEES SUCCESS FOR DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL TICKET IN EASTERN POLITICAL EVENTS.

Judge Hughes' Attack on Eight Hour Law Loses Thousands of Votes For Republican Candidate.

Dr. Charles H. Brough, Democratic nominee for Governor of Arkansas, who has just returned from delivering thirty addresses in the Maine campaign and several in New York in an interview with the Advocate spoke very optimistically about the outlook in the east for the success of the National Democratic ticket. He says that a normal Republican majority of 22,000 was cut to less than 10,000 in Maine and that Wilson is fully 5,000 or 6,000 votes stronger than the state ticket in Maine.

There were local issues, especially the temperance question, which had a material bearing on the Maine state campaign and the split ballot requiring the use of stickers to scratch a straight ticket. In Dr. Brough's opinion, prevented a great many independent ballots being cast especially for Senator Johnson and Congressman McGillicuddy in spite of local defections in his home city of Lewiston, was defeated by less than 500 out of over 40,000 votes polled in his district.

Dr. Brough says that the nomination of Judge Seabury for Governor in New York has naturally strengthened President Wilson's chances of carrying New York and that the passage of the eight-hour law has given Wilson the tremendous labor vote of that state, as well as the vote of those who believe in a program of social justice, of which the eight hour law is but the forerunner. Judge Hughes' attack on the eight hour law in the East have cost the Republican candidate thousands of votes, in the opinion of Dr. Brough.

CHILD IS BURNED TO DEATH IN CRIB; WAS LEFT ALONE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Mt. Vernon, O., Sept. 20.—Charles Nauman, 7 months old baby, was burned to death at the home of the parents five miles northwest of Sparta this morning. Charles Little, a milkman, in passing the house, saw smoke, and seeing no one around rushed in. He found a baby in a crib with the baby in it. The child was so badly burned it died shortly afterward. The mother was doing some chores out on the farm and had left the child with two other small children who were playing in the yard. How the crib caught fire cannot be learned.

VETERANS CLASP HANDS OVER FOLDS OF BANNER CAPTURED AT RINGGOLD

Survivors of First Arkansas Regiment and "Fighting Seventy-Sixth" Meet Again, but in Reunion of Love and Fellowship as Battle Flag Is Returned to Those Who So Valiantly Defended It Through Engagements

GOVERNOR WILLIS AND DR. C. H. BROUGH, SPEAKERS

Annual Reunion of the Seventy-Sixth and Thirtieth Ohio Regiments Held This Morning and Ceremonies Marking Return of the Regimental Banner Occurred This Afternoon—Gov. Willis Welcomes Arkansas Visitors and Dr. C. G. Brough, Candidate for Governor of Arkansas, Replies in Splendid Address—Daughters of the Confederacy and Daughters of Veterans Take Part in Program at Memorial Hall—Hon. Edward Kibler Accepts Flag On Behalf of Newark Veterans and M. E. Dunaway of Arkansas Party Replies.

The North met the South at the Auditorium this afternoon, right hands clasped over the tattered remnants of a flag captured by the First Arkansas Infantry from the 76th Ohio, in the battle of Ringgold Gap, Ga., November 27, 1863, and a steel bond of friendship was forged.

Nearly two thousand persons witnessed the ceremony of the flag's return and while the band played the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," the entire audience rose to its feet and stood while the presentation was made by General J. R. Gibbons of the First Arkansas Infantry. Lined up on one side of the stage were the members of the 76th Ohio and on the other a portion of the survivors of the First Arkansas. Following Dr. Charles H. Brough's address on behalf of the state of Arkansas, the colors of the 76th were placed in the hands of General Gibbons.

General Gibbons receiving the flag returned to his men and they advanced to the center of the stage and met the members of the 76th Ohio. With the flag held in their left hands, the men in gray put forth their right hands, and over the flag, the North and South clasped hands.

Tears appeared in the eyes of the old warriors as they stood in the center of the stage clasping hands and recalling vividly their first meeting 53 years ago, at Ringgold Gap, Ga. Again they heard the roar of cannons, the cries of their companions, as they advanced or fell back, wounded. They saw again the fury of the attack; the valiant efforts of seven members of the 76th Ohio to keep their colors floating in the breeze and of the joy experienced and the humiliation felt as William Barnes of the First Arkansas Infantry captured the colors belonging to the 76th.

The North had met the South 53 years later and all the hatred and animosity harbored in the "sixties" was obliterated and instead a lasting friendship was cemented. The party of visitors from Arkansas was composed of the following people:

C. F. Wiley, J. F. Leach, James Shappoch, John F. Medlock, W. E. Bevins and John A. Cathey of the First Arkansas Infantry; J. R. Gibbons, commander of the Omer Weaver Camp, United Confederate Veterans; M. E. Dunaway and Perry Richardson, Sons of Confederate Veterans; Miss Eula Spivey, sponsor for First Arkansas V. V. I.; Miss Lucille McDermott, sponsor for the United Confederate Veterans; Miss Eileen Neimeyer, sponsor for Omer Weaver Camp, United Confederate Veterans; Mrs. Orlando Halleburton, Mrs. Mary Neimeyer and Mrs. Medlock, chaperones and matrons of honor and Lou Stedman. They arrived in Newark yesterday morning and were entertained by local veterans and friends yesterday and last evening.

Early this morning Dr. Charles H. Brough, Democratic nominee for governor of Arkansas arrived and was met by a committee a short time later. Dr. Brough paid a visit to the Advocate office this morning and while there accepted an invitation to meet the officers of the Democratic committee, at Columbus this evening while enroute from Newark to Cincinnati.

At 1:10 this afternoon Governor Willis arrived in Newark for the celebration and was met at the station by a committee and escorted to Memorial hall. Company B, Old Guard acted as honorary escort. Newark was decked with flags befitting its welcome to the Arkansas visitors, the Columbus visitors and in honor of the reunion of the North and the South.

Marion Chrisman, president of the 76th regiment's organization, presided at the meeting. After the opening exercises, Mr. Chrisman introduced Governor Frank B. Willis. By a slip of the tongue, Mr. Chrisman presented him as the "extinguished" governor of Ohio. Before taking up the subject of his talk, Governor Willis asked permission to correct the chair. "I am not extinguished—a yet, and I don't intend to be."

The governor expressed his pleasure to be on the platform with representatives of the North and the South. He was particularly pleased, he said, to be on the program with Dr. Brough, candidate for governor in his home state. "During the critical hours of strife, Ohio looked to the late Governor Brough for leadership. We are proud to show Arkansas the way to get a good governor."

Gov. Willis's address was a strong plea for a stronger patriotism. He told of a recent concert where the Marine band rendered the "Star Spangled Banner" and a number of men in the audience were unpatriotic enough to leave the audience. He deplored such disrespect for the flag. As a contrast he told of a meeting where General John B. Gordon, former Confederate soldier, was on the program to speak. The general refused to take the platform until an American flag was draped on the speaker's stand. Gov. Willis said General Gordon had declared his intention to devote his life to eradicating the bitterness between the North and the South, which was evidenced during the civil war.

He quoted from the speech of Abraham Lincoln when he spoke to the people in Washington at the time of his first trip to the capital to be inaugurated, when he said: "We are not enemies, but friends. We must not be enemies." This, said Governor Willis, had now been brought about and today there was no North, no South, no East, no West; only our united republic.

At the conclusion of the governor's address, Miss Lucille McDermott sang, "I want to Go Back." Miss Eula Spivey played the accompaniment.

Dr. Brough's address was a beautiful tribute to the veterans on the stage with him. He emphasized the fact that all sectionalism had been eradicated long ago and that such events as these were cementing more firmly the bonds between the North and South.

Dr. Charles H. Brough, Democratic nominee, governor of Arkansas, delivered in part the following address:

"In returning the flag captured by the First Arkansas regiment from the 76th Ohio at the battle of Ringgold Gap, Ga., Nov. 27, 1863, as the great nephew of Ohio's famous war governor, John Brough, who ranks with Dix of New York, Curtin of Pennsylvania, and Yates of Ohio, as one of the four great war governors of northern states, I take pleasure in behalf of the brave troops of the First Arkansas regiment in returning to the brave men of the 76th Ohio, the flag, captured at the battle of Ringgold Gap, Ga., November 27, 1863.

The return of this flag is but one of the many eloquent testimonials to the fact that the bloody chasm which separated the north and the south during the trying days of the civil war, has been bridged over by the cement of a substantial peace, and that we are now bound together with hoops of steel in an indissoluble union of indissoluble states.

Every century has been ushered in by a conflict; every age has founded in her lap a hero; but it is a significant fact, stranger than fiction, that history can point to but one struggle waged purely for the perpetration of great principles, and can point to but one name in the roster of heroes, whose cause

OF REVELATION PREDICTED RISE OF UNITED STATES AND PRACTICALLY SET DATE

Evangelist Weaver Find Much In American History to Confirm The Biblical Predictions.

"The great republic of the United States is destined to play the most prominent role in the drama of this world's history because it is the nation which will exercise the greatest influence over the world just before the second coming of Christ. It is therefore the last named nation in Bible prophecy," said Evangelist H. A. Weaver, "last night at the tent meetings at Union and Eleventh streets. He used several large charts and oil paintings to more clearly set before the audience the meaning of the symbols employed in the 13th chapter of Revelation, upon which he based his remarks.

He said: "Two prominent symbols are seen by the prophet in this chapter.

A great beast which arose from the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and another beast coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spoke as a dragon." The first beast occupied the attention of the prophet from verses 1 to 10. Then the two horned beast has the stage from verses 11 to 17. By a careful application of the first symbol to history it is plain that it represents that great system of ecclesiastical government which controlled the empires of the world during the dark ages, or specifically from A. D. 538 to 1798, and which had its headquarters at the city of Rome.

"At this time in history the two horned beast is seen by the prophet to be coming up out of the earth. It arose, not from the sea, whence came all the other beasts mentioned in symbolic prophecy, but from 'the earth,' a place not noted in the prophecies heretofore. All other governments elsewhere noted in symbolic prophecy are shown in history to have had their rise in the old world Europe and Asia, and are specified as coming up out of the waters of the sea. The symbol of water always represents thickly populated parts of the earth. But the two horned beasts arose 'out of the earth,' a new territory on the western hemisphere where great population had heretofore been unknown.

The symbol can refer to no other government than the United States of America, for it answers the description of the prophecy exactly. In 1776 the Declaration of Independence was signed, and in 1789, just nine years previous to the time when the other beast government went into activity, the Constitution was ratified and the 'Ship of State' was launched, not on the ruins of other empires, but in a 'brand new' territory.

"The beast had 'two horns like a lamb.' This is taken to represent the character of the government here brot to view. The horns on the other beast representing other governments, are always in the prophecy mounted with horns (verse 1) showing them to be monarchical governments, but the two horns of this symbol are with out crowns, indicating a Republican form of government. Thus again the United States answers the description. The two principal features of the United States government are civil and religious liberty.

The principles of this government are again lamb like. But the prophecy further states that 'he spake as a dragon.' This prediction is yet future and refers to laws which will finally be made in this country which will in effect annul all take lamb like principles upon which the government was originally established. The manner of carrying into effect this change from a lamb-like to a dragon form of government is set forth in the verses which follow the 11th. This phase of the future history of the United States I shall discuss in a future address.

The subject for tonight is, "The Longest Time Prophecy in the Bible."

VETERANS

ever glorified his death and whose heroism ever consecrated his life, the hopes of a rising generation.

That war was the irrepressible conflict between the North and South; that here was the volunteer soldier, who wore on the one side the blue and on the other the gray. Heretofore, magazines had been lit by the fuse of ambition, and in the cannon's raking fire had been sealed the sovereignty of kings, but the guns that resounded from Sumter to Appomattox, in bold tones the great principle on the northern side, that this is "an indestructible union of indissoluble states," and, on the southern side, that "all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

War found Alexander a king and left him a lecherous libertine. War found Caesar a tribute of the people and left him a tyrant. War found Napoleon a democratic dreamer and left him a wreck on the island of St. Helena, where his soul was lashed by the billows of ambition as relentlessly as the lonely rock of St. Helena was lashed by the billows of the Atlantic.

But the Civil war found Grant and Lee, Sheridan and Pat Cleburne, and their brave followers, men of patriotism, and left them "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of their countrymen."

We of the South rejoice with you of the North that the war is over; that the last command of the great and magnanimous Grant has been obeyed, and we have peace; that arms are stacked and ranks are broken; that swords have been beaten into ploughshares and spears into pruning hooks, and that the dove has built her nest in the mouth of the dumb cannon.

We thank God that the last tear shed over the bier of the dying Confederacy has been crystallized into a signet gem, betrothing the love of the New South to the brotherhood of American states, and on the honor of a chivalrous people, who can be the bitterest of enemies and yet the warmest of friends, she today pledges her allegiance to one nation, one people, and one flag.

The people of the South, who have risen Phoenix-like from the ashes of their poverty and suffering and who have bravely built a noble edifice of economic and political fact reared by human toil and held firmly in place by the average prosperity of all who have had part in its building, share with you loyalty to a common flag, whose red is red to the red of autumn leaf or sparkling wine, whose white is whiter than the white of crescent moon on mountain snow, and whose blue is bluer than the blue of women's eyes or heaven's dome.

In the war museum at Chicago there is a strange and impressive object. Two bullets had met and the force of their meeting was a star-shaped disc. It was only a leaden star, but when I saw it, my imagination made of it a star of glory, portending a birth of peace on earth, good will to men, for one of the bullets was of the North, the other of the South. I seemed to see those bullets hurling through the air, hissing the hate they had no words to utter. I beheld them approach. I beheld hatred changed to recognition, recognition to love, and then, like kindred spirits seeking brotherhood and rest, they melted into an eternal union rivited by that kiss.

So we of Arkansas join with you of Ohio in a common allegiance to a common country, today lying peacefully between two mighty oceans, its lullaby sung by the swaying trees of primeval forests, a country "wrapped in God's own dream."

In the book of Revelation there is found this significant prophecy which in my humble opinion, is being rapidly fulfilled: "A woman shall go forth into a wilderness and upon a barren rock in the wilderness she shall give birth to a child, and that child shall one day rule the world."

In 1620 our forefathers driven by constitutional oppression, left mother England in the Mayflower. On December 20th, 1620, that Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock, and there, on a barren rock in the wilderness of North America, was born these United States, and who in this splendid assemblage before me I doubt for one moment that child today rules the world. By the return of this flag, the Southern men of Arkansas join with the Northern men of Ohio in a noble pledge that the wonderful composite of the Cavalier and the Puritan in our civilization shall under God's dispensation, rule the world. "Flag of the free, heart's hope and home."

By angel's hands to valor given, Thy stars have lit the welken dome, And all thy hues were born in heaven."

Another musical selection followed the Arkansas man's address. Then the impressive ceremony of presenting the flag to the Seventy-Sixth's survivors was carried out.

Hon. Edward Kibler, son of the late Col. Charles Kibler, beloved commander of the 76th, in a brief address, reviewing the loss and return of the flag, accepted it on behalf of the veterans.

Mr. Kibler, in accepting the flag on behalf of the survivors of the 76th regiment, said:

"After the capture of this banner, at the battle of Ringgold, Ga., its existence was overlooked and forgotten for nearly 50 years. It was then found among the effects of General Hardee, who had commanded the corps of the Confederate Army engaged in that battle and at Missionary Ridge.

The daughter of General Hardee then graciously proposed to return the banner to the 76th Ohio, from whom it had been captured. That capture was accomplished by the First Arkansas Infantry, who were a part of the division under command of General Patrick Cleburne of General Hardee's corps.

The fact of the capture of the banner by the First Arkansas regiment, was probably unknown to the daughters of General Hardee when they proposed to return the banner. The proposition to return it was made known to Governor Cox, and the final arrangement was made to accomplish it at the grand reunion of the Confederate veterans and the Sons of Veterans in the month of May, 1916 at Jacksonville, Fla. A committee of the 76th was nominated by Adjutant General Wood to go to Jacksonville to receive the banner. This committee was in charge of George F. Burba, private secretary of the Governor. They went to Jacksonville.

In the meantime, the survivors of the First Arkansas regiment made the claim, and not without merit, that as the actual captors of the banner, they should be at least, consulted about its return, they did not at any time object to its return, and suggested that it should take place at Little Rock, Arkansas. The difference was finally settled in this way, viz:

That the First Arkansas regiment acquiesced in the formal return of the banner at Jacksonville, but reserved the right to come to Ohio on the 27th day of November, 1914, and there publicly make over to the State of Ohio, their rights as captors of the emblems.

As a result of this arrangement, you, the survivors of the First Arkansas regiment under the command of General Gibbons, are here today. We cordially welcome you, and the ladies and gentlemen who have accompanied you. We do not welcome you "with bloody hands to hospitable graves," but as comrades, as American citizens, just as we are, and entitled to all the privileges and immunities vouchsafed by the reunited government. We "let the dead past bury its dead," and turn to the abounding future, which promises glories and prosperity sufficient for all.

We receive this banner in the spirit you tender it, that is, of good will, in that adorable spirit which blesses him that gives and him that takes. It shall for all time remain in the flag room of the state house, not only as the original banner of the regiment, but sanctified by its generous restoration.

If it be said that the return of the banner is a little thing, that it makes no difference whether or not it was returned at all or that there should be two ceremonies attending its return, the answer is, that we old soldiers, do not think of it in that way.

The colors of a regiment are the poetry of the service. The men love it, they sling themselves by it, they march under it, they fight under it. If the color-bearer falls, another seizes it and holds it aloft, and so on until the battle ends. The firm determination is to keep it flying at whatever cost, and in the stress of war, it is lost, the sorrow is universal and profound. Up to the 27th day of November, 1863, this banner had been carried by the 76th regiment in every battle in which it had been engaged at Fort Donelson, Shiloh, the operations near Corinth, at Vicksburg, at Lookout Mountain, at Missionary Ridge. But at Ringgold, it was lost—lost without dishonor, and captured with honor. Each regiment there found foemen worthy of its steel. I do not know the losses of the First Arkansas regiment. But I do know that the 76th regiment in about 10 minutes lost 52 out of the 200 engaged, in killed and wounded. Four officers and 48 men were killed in support of the colors. Eight color-bearers were killed and wounded. Not a man was captured or missing. This banner was lost in this way—the brave bearer of it was grievously wounded and fell forward towards the First Arkansas, and as he fell, the banner was projected further forward. Several men were wounded in an attempt to recover it. Just then came the orders to fall back fighting, and the banner was captured.

This statement shows the valor of the man who captured it, and I think it shows why the old soldiers do not regard the return of the banner as an idle thing.

We, the survivors of the 76th regiment feelingly thank you, the survivors of the First Arkansas Confederate infantry for your willing acquiescence in the return of this banner, and we fully appreciate the fact that you have come so far to take part in this ceremony. It has this significance—that it evidences that whatever hatred or animosity existed between the sections of the country and there was little between the rank and file of the opposing armies it is in the deep bosom of the ocean buried, and that henceforth we ought to be, and can be, brethren dwelling together in unity, comrades, living, fighting if may be, under the one flag.

We pray for your safe return to your homes and for your future happiness.

Hon. M. E. Dunaway, candidate for congress from Arkansas, replied to Mr. Kibler's speech of acceptance.

Mr. Dunaway said:

With unusual pleasure do we, the Sons and Daughters of Confederate veterans of Arkansas accept the greetings and copious words of welcome so cordially and eloquently extended to us on this occasion. We appreciate, beyond powers of expression, the generous and happy manner in which you have accepted this flag.

We are especially pleased to come to the great Commonwealth of Ohio—this land of charming cities and progressive people—this land of beauty and abundance of lovely hills and fertile valleys, "held like a picture in the arms of Lake Erie and the Ohio river"—a land of romance and tradition, the very names of your cities and rivers reflecting the primordial presence of that prehistoric race whose sad story surrounds the early history of our country; a state whose history is deftly interwoven with the struggles for freedom and human progress.

Here arose the great and good McKinley, during whose administration as President all sectional lines were obliterated, under whose

HISTORY OF THE 76TH REGIMENT, O. V. V. I.

(By Ernest Cornell.)

The 76th Ohio Volunteer Infantry today is holding its 38th annual reunion. Surviving members of the First Arkansas Infantry presented to the Licking county boys the old regimental colors captured from them at Ringgold, Georgia, on the 27th day of November, 1863. This is an event of an unusual significance, and one full of sentiment and memories of the past. Ceremonies befitting the occasion were arranged for and every effort was made to warmly welcome the Arkansas veterans and accord to them the kindly hospitality due them.

It was a memorable day in the lives of the old veterans of the 76th. Many of the older people of this community are no doubt familiar with the war record and gallant deeds of the 76th Ohio Infantry. For the benefit of those who have reached manhood and womanhood since the great conflict between the North and South this sketch is intended.

The 76th Ohio Infantry was organized in 1862 and was mostly made up of Licking county boys. Seven companies out of the ten companies which composed it were wholly boys from this county, and for that reason it has long borne the name of the Famous Fighting Licking Regiment. It was recruited by Colonel Charles R. Woods, and took the field in February, 1862. Unlike many regiments, whose soldiers before seeing active service, are given months of training, this band of brave and willing boys, six days after leaving Newark, on the 14th of February, 1862, was a part of the Federal army that laid siege to Fort Donelson. The success of this tactical well known battle, the fort was surrounded after a fierce and continuous fighting for three days, in which the losses were heavy on both sides. This was one of the most decisive battles in the war, and had a twofold significance. First, it was the first real Federal success, and was the first battle won in the West by the Union soldiers. Second, it showed Uncle Abe Lincoln that kind of stuff was in the Licking county boys and the other raw and inexperienced troops who fought until their ammunition was exhausted or fresh troops came to take their places. Besides this, from a strategic standpoint, it opened the way for further achievements and for the first time during the war brought to the attention of the President and the country the character, courage and determination of General Grant, who later became to every soldier "Our Beloved Commander."

The next battle in which our own gallant 76th was engaged was the battle of Shiloh, where they conducted themselves conspicuously and heroically. This was one of the fiercest and largest in the war. It was this great battle, perhaps as much, if not more than any other, that spelled the downfall of the Confederacy. Had the Confederates decisively defeated the Union troops in the battle of Shiloh, they would have been able to march on to Memphis, Mississippi Valley, but before the valley and hot fire of the country boys, they were forced to fall back to Corinth in ignominious retreat. In March of Shiloh, as at Fort Donelson, our home boys, fresh from the farm and shop, untrained and unskilled in the use of arms and unacquainted with an unaccustomed to any sort of warfare, fought as did the trained phalanx of Alexander and the seasoned veterans of Napoleon. The 76th then moved upon Corinth under General Halleck, and the enemy were ordered to get out and abandon his strategic point, which was the junction of two large railway systems. The 76th then went to Memphis and later was at Helena, Arkansas, and near Vicksburg it was the part of an expedition that captured a Confederate regiment and a rebel transport laden with arms and ammunition. In daring and in acts of conspicuous bravery the men of the 76th were not excelled by any soldiers in the war. In October it went to Missouri, and on January 1, 1865, it courageously and vigorously assaulted the rebel works at Arkansas Post, which were taken, but here seventy brave men from old Licking county gave up their lives for their country. The brave and intrepid 76th then, under General Sherman, their illustrious neighbor and fearless commander, made the first assault upon Vicksburg, and under Grant and Sherman partook in that memorable and lengthy siege of Vicksburg. Vicksburg was strongly fortified and ably commanded, but these country boys had now not only bravery but experience, and Vicksburg fell before the Northern army. This sealed the downfall of the Confederacy, and the Mississippi, the channel of trade and commerce, became under absolute control of the Federal government. After moving to Memphis, the 76th, together with the other Ohio regiments, was consolidated with the Cumberland and Tennessee armies and General Grant was given supreme command. Under his leadership on November 23, 1865, this famous regiment participated in "The Battle Above the Clouds," and captured Lookout Mountain, and two days later nobly and bravely assisted in driving the Confederates from Missionary Ridge. These two battles were important and famous because of the topography of the country and the character of the battlefields. History has never before nor since recorded a battle of such magnitude and importance fought on mountain slopes and summits and fought when the clouds hung below instead of above. It only served to more than fully demonstrate the fighting qualities of the 76th Ohio, and was conclusive evidence that these brave boys could fight as well on the summit of Lookout Mountain as in the swamps and mire around Vicksburg.

At Ringgold, Georgia, on November 27, 1863, the 76th charged the Confederates, who were entrenched in an almost impregnable position, and a desperate encounter ensued. The Confederates were superior in numbers, and our boys were hard pressed and severely battered. It was here that they lost their flag to the Arkansas troops after its gallant bearer had lost an arm and his life. It is this old flag which has been sleeping in the South for over fifty years which will be restored on the 20th to its original possessors and gallant defenders. At the time of the battle of Ringgold, the 76th had lost 40 per cent of its number. These boys after two years of the fiercest fighting and most inexpressible hardships returned to their homes, but only for a short time, when they re-listed as Veteran Volunteers. They felt the call of their country, and back to the battlefield they went and under Sherman they made their way fighting every step to the sea. In this long march, full of great trials and human endurance, they "broke the Confederacy in twain," and so disabled her that she could not rise again.

During the last days of the war the gallant 76th performed as nobly as she did in the beginning. Her soldiers lacked not the willingness, courage, bravery or endurance. The march to the sea was made without complaint by them, and with the same long march and spirit as when they came from Louisville, Kentucky, when they were discharged on July 2, 1865. In all, this renowned regiment participated in 47 battles and marched 3,325 miles. Only a few of the battles in which it was engaged have been enumerated, but it fought in the most important and most hotly contested in the entire war. When the 76th was organized it had 1,500 boys; when it was discharged it had 400 men, and today or at the reunion on the 20th there will be less than 150 old men to answer to the bugle call. There are indeed few left to tell the story of Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain and Ringgold. Only a handful of grizzled veterans remain today; only a pitiful few to gaze upon their old battle flag on the 20th. Only a very few of the large regiment of 1,500 can embrace the folds of the old flag whose blood they so freely gave for its defense. But their old flag is coming home, borne by tender hands and brotherly hearts, those who took the old flag no longer desire to keep it; they no longer cherish a keener towards their victors. Both are indeed brothers in one country under one flag. Time has softened the passions of men as will eternity entirely dispel them. The old flag is coming home, and we should all join with these old veterans in this celebration. Let us give them a rousing cheer on the 20th not only for their sake but for the sake of our united country and for the sake of "Old Glory," whom we all love, and who wishes to finally repose in the Valley of Old Licking.

"ANURIC!" THE NEWEST DISCOVERY IN CHEMISTRY

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Doctor Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid that can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply wonderful how curable "Anuric" acts. The best of results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

Go to your nearest drug store and simply ask for a 50-cent package of "Anuric," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, or even write Doctor Pierce for a free sample. If you suspect kidney or bladder trouble, send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Doctor Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you, without fee or charge.

Note:—French scientists affirm that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithia in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical compound that may be safely given to children, but should be used only by grown-ups who actually wish to restore their kidneys to perfect health, by conscientiously using one box—or more in extreme cases—as "Anuric" (thanks to Doctor Pierce's achievement) is by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.

SHAKY NERVES

Unless you are well advanced in years your hand should be steady.

If your hand, your thumb or foot trembles when you try to hold it still, if the lines are shaky when you write, if you have tremors of your lips or chin, your nerves need strengthening.

These signs often precede a serious nervous breakdown. In meeting this condition it is necessary to exercise care in the diet and take a nerve tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain ingredients that build up the nerves at the same time that they tone up the system in general and their value in preventing nervous disorders from developing cannot be disputed.

They are especially recommended for nervous, run-down people because they are a non-alcoholic tonic.

If you have any nervous troubles write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for their little book on nervous disorders. It gives methods of home treatment and directions regarding hygiene that every one should have. A diet book will also be sent free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by your own druggist or will be sent direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

ASTONISHING POWER OF IRON TO GIVE STRENGTH TO BROKEN DOWN NERVOUS PEOPLE

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folks 200 Per Cent. in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, a well known specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some are fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your flagging vital powers for the moment, making you at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double, and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that this old form of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated; and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated iron, for example, is pleasant to taste, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial."

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have in its potency that they will forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty years of age, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Wm. A. Erman, Evans' Cut-Rate Drug Store and all other druggists.

ESTABLISHED IN 1820

Entered as Second Class Matter
March 10, 1882, at the postoffice at Newark, Ohio, under the Act of March 4, 1879.It is never a good plan to swap horses while crossing a stream of water.—Abraham Lincoln.

A Visit From the South.

Newark is honored today by the presence of a large party of delightful men and women from the southland. They are here upon a mission that touches the heart, that serves to further cement the friendship between the north and the south—the return to the Seventy-sixth regiment of the flag that was captured in the great struggle of a half century ago when this country was marked by a dividing line. In the party are governors and state officials, army officers, charming women and courteous men and they have brought the old flag back and handed it reverently to the "boys in blue."

Newark by today's ceremony and by the visit of these delightful southern folk becomes better acquainted with the south. Our people are given an insight into the far-famed southern hospitality and many of us are learning the value of courtesy as never before. This visit from the south is only another bit of evidence that the old order has been wiped away and forgotten and in its place has come a feeling of genuine friendship. In fact there is no longer a south or a north but one great, broad country where the southland vies with the north in loyalty to the flag.

Think It Over.

An Ohio political writer, during the primary campaign, indicated that Myron T. Herrick would be favored by the special interests because he belonged to the crowd. This brings to mind that in the campaign of 1908, after Roosevelt had forced the nomination of Taft, the Wall street contingent would not contribute to the campaign because they feared that Taft might prove to be a Progressive instead of a reactionary in office. There were no funds for the campaign and peace had to be made with the Wall street leaders.

It is recorded in the public affairs that Charles P. Taft, who has never changed his color, and Myron T. Herrick, the great Progressive now in the year 1916, rode from Ghent to Aix to tell the Wall street crowd that William H. Taft was all right.

In the light of later day developments it is now absolutely known that a definite pledge to a certain end was given. No doubt Mr. Herrick was one of the men who "fixed" the "interests" for Taft, and who promised the appointment of Attorney-General Wickersham in Taft's cabinet with the assurance to big business that there would be no more prosecution for violation of trust and other criminal laws of the land. Samuel Blythe knew this when he wrote his remarkable political novel of the past year—and he told it too.

The Girl of Today.

A woman who graduated 25 years ago from a leading girls' seminary says she wishes she could go to school over again now. She longs not so much for better instruction of today. Her feeling was greater than girlhood is the better spirit among the girls. At that time the competition was as to which girl should have the most beaux dangling around. Success and popularity in society were the ideals.

Yet the school referred to is famous, one of the best of its type in this country. Twenty-five years ago it had an excellent faculty and a principal of high ideals and conspicuous efficiency. The teachers did their best to impart high aims. But they could do little against the temper of the times. Women then were parasites to men. Their primary aim was to win masculine favor, to be the "belles of the ball," and to have a little court of flatterers always about them.

The girl of today has a more normal feeling about men. She is preparing for self-support, and is more or less indifferent about marriage. She is just as likely to marry however. This independence adds to her elusiveness, and really makes her more attractive.

A woman who recently made some visits with relatives in a large city, speaks of the industrious habits the girls she met were cultivating. She said that every family she called on was having trouble in finding servants. In most of them she found the daughters of the family washing the dishes.

The business of professional girl has an independence which her older friends envy. She can pick and choose in marriage. Her mind is wholesomely occupied, and her powers developed by meeting the problems of daily life. If later she marries, she is all the better equipped. The problems of business and professional life help her to meet the problems of the home.

The German Defensive.

(New York Evening Post.)

To what extent is the steady yielding of the German lines on the Somme involuntary? To what extent is it a part of the plan which the advent of von Hindenburg brought into the field of discussion, namely, the abandonment of the German lines in the west for a concentration, and a decision, against Russia or Rumania? If such a plan is in contemplation or execution it is idle to suppose that the Germans would announce it by a formal and open retirement. Rather it would be a case of feeding back to the allies as much territory as necessary, at the heaviest price obtainable. To keep up appearances there would even be the formality of the counter-attack. Such attacks have been delivered by the Germans, but with very little success. It is a different story from the vehemence with which the Germans "came back" after successful French efforts around Verdun. An allied thrust three miles deep, delivered not after months of preparation, but as an incident in a sustained effort, argues either a weakening of German morale and power or else a change in German plans. As yet, however, we can only conjecture. Only after the recent feat of General Foch is it reasonable to believe that the German defensive on the west is no longer a rigid defensive.

Are Our Women Fat?

(Chicago Tribune.)

Years ago our school geographies gave us the meager but startling information that "the French are fond of dancing and light wines." A Swedish artist who spent a month in New York City has gone home with the impression that American women are all fat and dance too much. Also that skirts are too short. It will really be too bad if this impression is accepted as the truth in Europe. The artist must have looked in at a daisant given by munition makers' daughters.

Vital statistics do not bear out the Swede's unfavorable verdict. They do not touch the matter of skirts or dancing. It is true, but they give the average weight of American women as 166 1-2 pounds, rindside, and the immaculate creases in the trousers of the American young man bear testimony to the truth of the figures.

We have, of course, some adipose women, but the dancing observed by our critic is practiced for the purpose of reducing their too, too solid flesh. This and the valuable advice of Dr. Donnelly are rapidly transforming them from spheroids to spherules.

As to the shortness of their skirts—well, who objects to that?

The Real Issue.

(Philadelphia Record.)

"Nationalism The Real Issue" is the subject of a two-column editorial in The New York Tribune which declares that it overshadows all others. We are glad to learn this. Some of our Republican contemporaries have been insisting that the tariff is the one thing to lay emphasis on, while others have demanded that precedence be given to Mexico. Clearly Mr. Hughes has no positive views on the subject. He tried to make the voluntary resignation of the chief of the Coast and Geodetic Survey a great national issue, but the country failed to catch on to it. Doubtless he will be glad to take up Nationalism. Presumably, woman suffrage or any old thing that will bring him a few votes. He does not seem to be very fastidious in this matter. Webster's Dictionary gives five definitions of the word "Nationalism." Probably The Tribune had in mind the second meaning, as follows:

"National character, or tending to it; nationality."

Or it may have meant to give first place to the third definition, which is: "Devotion to, or advocacy of, national interests or national unity and independence, as of Ireland."

Whatever the G. O. P. organ meant, the Democrats should be willing to accept the issue. In devotion to the interests of the United States the Wilson Administration has accomplished more in three years than the Republicans did in sixteen.

If this is not the case why should the German-American Alliance, which cares little for American interests, but a great deal for those of Germany, be so bitter against President Wilson and so enthusiastic for Charles Evans Hughes? This is a phase of nationalism which the pussy-footing candidate never touches on in his speeches. It is respectfully referred to the powerful intellect that guides The Tribune.

China and Japan.

Japan has already affronted the opinion of Europe as well as that of the United States. If war was not already raging, her attitude in China would have brought it about. There's a Lot of It!

The New York "Times" published the other day an account of an interview with his Excellency John Bonzano, Titular Archbishop of Milan and Apostolic Delegate to the United States. The interviewer finally asked the apostolic delegate to tell something of his opinion of modern American literature as he had observed it during his stay of four years in this country. The learned father looked carefully down Madison avenue for a moment and then gave his verdict: "Of modern American literature, I would say that I am convinced that it is plentiful. It might well be added that one trouble with our present-day writing is that very few of those busied therein can express themselves with the clearness, restraint, and force of that sentence!"—Collier's Weekly.

EAT LESS MEAT
IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Sals to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—
Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twin-gles, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Sals from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Sals cannot injure anyone;
makes a delightful effervescent little water-drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Every Day Etiquette

"When a girl turns a man down upon his asking her to dance, is he at liberty to dance that number with another girl, or must he sit out with the first girl asked?" inquired George.

"He is at liberty to look for another partner and is not obliged to sit with her through the dance," was his elder brother's reply.

Our Boys and Girls

The real home, in which the parents are good pals, can give points in rearing children to the old order. The wise make comrades of their growing up or grown children. There is a drawing together of youth and middle age that is good; good for the elders and conducive to freshness of spirit. The high wall between parent and child is down, and they do not talk a strange language to each other as do many.

"To make real comrades of your children is to let them feel that you have gone with them step by step all the way, and one day you will realize they are falling into your step, going back to childhood and blaming themselves for their failures toward you, even as you failed toward yours, and never again will you complain of their ingratitude."

Milady's Boudoir

Protect Your Throat.
—How often we see a dainty miss with deep fur trimming on her costume, even on her hat and hair, but nary a scrap of it on the bare white throat which is purpled with the winter's cold.

If you can afford fur, put it where it will be of the most benefit. Even a muff should be sacrificed rather than to allow the throat to suffer. And the throat does suffer, and in time, will rebel against such abusive treatment.

If you have no furs, wrap the throat warmly in a silk or woollen muffler. Don't allow false pride to rob you of your health. It is very good to pat the throat with cold water or alcohol before going out into the cold. This treatment will cleanse the pores and insure you against sore throats and colds.

If everyone were to be as careful of their throats as opera singers, there would be less sneezing, blowing and coughing in the world.

"Doctor's orders?" said the preacher. "Did he tell you to go prowling round all night?"

"No, sah, not exactly, sah," said Uncle Cal; "but he done ordered me chicken broth."—Sacramento Bee.

ARKANSAS

ENJOYING PERIOD OF INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY IN WHICH RESOURCES DEVELOPED.

State Has Wide Variety of Activities From Cotton Raising to Diamond Mining.

Mighty few of the essential articles of agriculture or commerce upon which American people depend, are left out of the list of things produced within the state of Arkansas, according to Dr. C. H. Brough who is here with the Arkansas' who have brought back to Ohio the battle flag of the 76th Ohio.

"Arkansas," said Dr. Brough, "is no longer the state of the 'Arkansas Traveler' wearing his coon-skin cap and coming to the fork of the road, not knowing which fork to take, but is a state of wonderful potential possibilities and great industrial prosperity. The state has an estimated real and personal property valuation of over $2,000,000,000. It produces eighty-five per cent of the world's bauxite out of which aluminum is made; has the highest acreage yield of rice of any state in the Union, with a yield of 37 bushels per acre; ranks sixth as a cotton-producing state, with an estimated crop this year of over a million bales; ranks first in the reproduction of ash, cottonwood, and red gum, third in the production of hickory and oak, and fifth in the production of pine in the United States; has two counties with nineteen million apple trees and the largest peach orchard in the world at Highland, Pike and Howard Counties; its apples, particularly the Arkansas Blacks raised in Washington and Benton counties, have captured the first prize at the last six international exhibitions; eighteen counties have valuable deposits of semi-anthracite coal, and the smokeless coal now used in the United States Navy is mined in Arkansas; its lead and zinc fields are being rapidly developed and bid fair to rival those of Joplin, Missouri, and in Pike county near Murfreesboro, there is a diamond mine where over four thousand and genuine diamonds have been taken from a wonderful blue volcanic formation, similar to the Kimberley formation in South Africa. Arkansas is developing rapidly, educationally, is being estimated that a school house has been constructed for every working day in the year since 1900 at an average cost of $2,826 per school house. The Good Roads agitation is having its effect and road building and improvement is assuming permanent form. In short, Arkansas offers as fine opportunities for investment as any state in the Union, for a Chinese-Tartary wall of isolation could be drawn around the state, and Arkansas would be independent of the outside world."

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Wheat developed considerable strength today, influenced more or less by London admissions that the armies of Rumania were in a perilous position and by Russian advances that it was not expected the Dardanelles would be opened in time for the winter campaign this season. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/4 decline to 1/2 advance, with Dec. 1.49 1/2 to 1.50 and May 1.60 1/2 to 1.61 1/2. Substantial gains all around but then by something of a reaction.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Three grand circuit regulars, Sadie S. Miruhful and Esperanza, are called to post against Sister Strong, book favorite in the 2:07 trotting event of the afternoon's program.

The fast trot to be run continuing upon the starting of Peter Scott, is to be contested among that veteran and Joan, and Mary Fulmer. It is expected that this race will be run, as the owners are anxious to test their trotters one against another.

An extra entertainment will be an effort by Peter Stevens to pace the mile better than 2:03 1-4. The pacer has done 2:00 flat, following Napoleon Direct, who was caught at 1:59 3-4.

NEW RESTAURANT IS OPENED BY SCHALLER BROS.

Schaller Brothers, proprietors of the Old Home in West Main street, have added a new feature and on one day next week will open a ladies and gentlemen's dining room on the second floor of their business block. It will be in charge of Joseph Kuster, the well known caterer and restauranter of this city, whose reputation along those lines has been firmly established for years.

Messrs. Schaller Brothers have installed handsome fixtures and the room has been nicely redecorated, making it a very attractive dining hall. A large new boiler and range have been erected in the kitchen and a specialty will be made of broiling orders, sea foods and specialties only obtainable in the grill rooms of the larger cities. The proprietors will cater to the general public and after-theatre and dancing parties. It is probable that a special musical program will be given on opening day.

Platinum deposits, rich enough for their operation to be profitable, have been discovered in Germany.

ELKS HOLD FINAL OUTING AT BEECH ISLE THURSDAY

The farewell outing of the season will be given under the auspices of the Newark Lodge of Elks tomorrow at Beach Island, a special car leaving the interurban station at 9 o'clock. A fine program has been prepared which includes various sports, but the feature will be the dinner. On account of it being the last stag outing of the year the entertainment committee has made special preparations, and the caterer will serve the banner dinner of the season. No one will know what it is to be until they are seated at the dining table. Two musical and two vaudeville acts have been engaged for the occasion. Visitors from adjoining lodges have been invited and preparations have been made to care for two hundred guests.

DAYTON CLUB IS TITLE HOLDER IN CENTRAL LEAGUE.

Dayton, Sept. 20.—Dayton clinched the 1916 championship by winning the sixth game of the post-season series here yesterday. It was a pitchers' battle between Clark and Lakoff, the result being 2 to 0. Stewart of the Vets hit the first ball pitched in the third inning over the right-field fence for what proved to be a winning run. Reilly's walk and Lakoff's double were responsible for the second run. Stewart made a great catch of Shovelin's long fly for the last putout of the season. Score: R. H. E.

PRES. UNDERWOOD ON 8 HOUR DAY

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20.—The railroad chiefs of the country were not opposed to the eight-hour day, contrary to the opinion that has prevailed throughout the country, said President E. D. Underwood, of the Erie railroad, here for the State Fair, in an interview here.

"There is a general feeling that the eight-hour day is coming, and no doubt it will come, and it ought to come. The law will cost the Erie Railroad $3,000,000 a year. I do not believe any additional legislation is needed by Congress on this subject."
